■Traveling with your pet

In recent years, the pet population, particularly dogs and cats, outnumbers the population of children under 15 years old. Pets have become regarded as a family member and an integral part of our daily lives. In addition, an increasing number of people are traveling with their pets (pet tourism) owing to promotional activities by the auto industry and extensive pet facilities at rest areas along the highway. It is gradually becoming new style of travel. Meanwhile, there are few hotel accommodations that allow owners to bring their pets and which also offer high-quality service. In light of these trends, Tokyo Tatemono Resort has opened Regina Resort Izu Murin, the fourth facility in its series of hotels that offer accommodations for people and their pets. The accommodations are based on a resort theme where owners and their pets can get closer.

■Features of Regina Resort Izu Murin

- (i) The hotel only accommodates 8 groups per day (two rooms in the main hotel building and six cottages)
- (ii) All rooms have outdoor and indoor hot springs baths that command a spectacular view of the Sagami Bay
- (iii) Spacious guest rooms (60m²-83m²) combine refined Japanese elegance with Western fixtures
- (iv) Izu kaiseki (traditional Japanese dinner served in courses) offers guests a highlight of the Izu area's abundant fresh seasonal bounty

Tokyo Tatemono Resort is scheduled to open Regina Resort Karuizawa Mikage Yosui, the fifth in this series of the company's pet-friendly Japanese inns, in the summer of 2016. Going forward, we plan to develop and operate hotels where owners can bring their dogs, giving both owners and their pets peace of mind and allowing them to enjoy traveling together.
